

Let's End Conversion Practices in SA

WHAT DO WE MEAN BY CONVERSION PRACTICES?

Conversion practices are based on the idea that LGBTQA+ people are 'broken' or disordered and or that being LGBTQA+ is caused by factors such as developmental trauma, abuse, neglect, spiritual influences, or parenting issues and that LGBTQA+ people can or should suppress or attempt to change their internal experience of gender or sexual orientation.

There is a range of organisations and individuals - across healthcare, human services, families, community groups and religious bodies that undertake practices grounded in this idea.

WHAT ARE WE ASKING THE SA GOV TO DO?

To bring an end to conversion practices in South Australia in 2024, with formal public consultation to be undertaken prior to the development of proposed legislation.

WHAT DO CONVERSION PRACTICES LOOK LIKE?

Conversion practices can be focused on an individual or a specific group of people. These activities usually take the form of something that might otherwise be considered benign if not for the implicit (or disguised) motivation and desired outcomes of conversion practices.

Some examples might include:

- prayer meetings
- health appointments
- disability support planning or regular pastoral care meetings
